Carliste Claims His Election.

[Special to Daily Bulletin.]

CINCINNATI, Ohio, November 5.—The official count in Speaker Carlisle's district began this morning. He claims his election by about six hundred majority, but the official count may reduce this a little. AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The Prohibitionists were victorious in Christian County last Tuesday.

We advise the faithful Democrats of Mason to keep cool and not make any rash threats.

We got Texas, and don't you forget it. There is always a silver lining to every cloud.—Lexington Transcript.

The eagles may scream now, but the roosters are not all dead yet. The latter will take their turn at crowing in the "sweet by and by."

The returns from the election are rather discouraging to faithful Democrats, but we never give up. We have been defeated but not conquered.

With twenty bridle couples at one hotel and ten at another in Washington, what figures can John Sherman produce to show that things were any better when he was Secretary of the Treasury?—Chicago Herald.

The Democratic administration has reduced the public debt $117,000,000 in the past eighteen months. At the same time, they are greatly lessening the expenses of the government. For the first three months of the present fiscal year, the expenses were $11,000,000 less than for the corresponding period last year.

THE Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge, the peerless orator, who represents the Lexington (Kentucky) district in the present Congress, is the son of a sister of the eloquent William C. Preston, of South Carolina; the grandson of a sister of the great Patrick Henry of Virginia; a grandson of Thomas Jefferson, the great general, who was the author of the famous "Kentucky Resolution of 1798." His father, Rev. Robert J. Breckinridge, and two of his uncles, Rev. John Breckinridge and Rev. Wm. L. Breckinridge, were highly distinguished ministers of the Gospel. His Uncle Cabell was a celebrated lawyer and statesman, whose son, the yet more noted General John C. Breckinridge, was Vice President of the United States. His grandmother, Breckinridge, bearing younger ladies complain of diseased nerves, played Golf that she was born before nerves came in fashion. It is possible that the silver-tongued orator is more indebted to this grand old nation than all his other relatives combined.—Exchange.

Comments on the Chicago Whisky Convention.

One would think from reading the resolutions of the recent whisky convention at Chicago that it was a missionary society of some sort, called together for the furtherance of some great cause.

They proclaim in said resolutions that they are unalterably opposed to drunkenness, and all kinds of immorality and vice; and that they will cordially support any measures looking to a suppression of the same.

Let us suppose now that everyone takes these gentlemen at their word and quite the use of the article that above all other things makes vice and crime. What a prosperous condition would their distilleries and liquor houses be in!

No, these gentlemen are deceiving themselves in a belief that they are guilting the public when they put out such a proclamation. Of all men in the country, they are the last who would be benefited by temperance in the use of whisky.

If there were no new drinkers coming on all the time and swelling the great army of drunks, they would consider that their trade was on the decline, and would then have to convene to devise ways and means to keep it up.

No, their business cannot be in a flourishing state unless the article they make is used, and the more people use it, the better it is for their business, and they don't need to be told that if men leave off drinking the occupation of distillers is done.

Gentlemen, there is no use of your trying to deceive the people of this country by your long-winded resolves. They judge your business by its fruits, and from time immemorial they know that the fruits of the whisky traffic have been crime, murder, lawlessness, poverty and shame.

The men of this convention will go back to their palatial homes with the conviction that they have succeeded in fooling some people into a belief that they were sincere in what they did in Chicago, but they may be sure they are the only ones that are fooled, if they are resting under such an impression.

Montgomery Plister.

Montgomery Plister, now as well known in the dramatic profession as in the contiguous art of journalism, was born in Mayville, Ky., about 32 years ago. He came to Cincinnati when a child and received his primary education in the public schools of this city. His studies were completed at Yale College, New Haven, Connecticut. After leaving college, in 1873, Mr. Plister entered journalism. Through a natural predilection for the stage, he temporarily left the newspaper business and acquired considerable reputation as an exponent of the scenic art, at the same time gaining an experience that has developed in important results during the past few years. He afterwards accepted the position of dramatic critic of the old Gazette, and after the consolidation of that paper with the Commercial-Gazette, where he is still employed as editor of the amusement column and superintendent of the art department. His success as a cartoonist is another evidence of Mr. Plister's remarkable versatility. Mr. Plister's first dramatic work was a one-act farce called "A Manager's Trials," which was written when he was only seventeen years old. It was played by the regular stock companies for a number of years, without the author's name being ever mentioned.

Following this came a dramatization of one of Bulwer's novels, which has not yet been put upon the stage, although some important negotiations have been offered regarding its production. When about 23 years of age Mr. Plister wrote the comedy of "Downey," which was produced at the Grand Opera-house in this city by Manager Miles' famous stock company. This comedy was afterward played in all the principal Eastern cities, and everywhere met with success. It is now incorporated in the published edition of the Modern Drama. "A Soap Bubble" is his last, which, although not superior, is equal to his former productions from a purely literary point of view. It has struck the public pulse and proved profitable. More emanations of a similar popular character may be expected from his prolific pen.—Cincinnati Daily Post.

The funeral will take place Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

TRIAL proves that honesty is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine preparation, an unequalled blood purifier, decidedly superior to all others.

Dr. JOHN J. MALLOY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Malloy, of the Germantown neighborhood, is now Home Surgeon of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital. He is a close student and merits the honor he has received.

HUNDREDS of letters from those using Ayer's Hair Vigor attest its value as a restorer of gray hair to its natural color. As a stimulant and tonic, preventing and often curing baldness, and cleansing and soothing the scalp, its use cannot be too strongly recommended.

Every day brings fresh testimony of the superiority of Ballenger's Diamond Spectacles over any others. A lady who had not been able, with any others, to see the eye of a needle for years, now perfectly with the Diamond. Others, after a few weeks, are able to discontinue the use of spectacles entirely. For sale by Ballenger.

THE friends of Captain George Barkley and Mrs. Captain Power, of Aberdeen, will be gratified to learn that their brother, John L. Barkley, who was lately beaten up and robbed in Cincinnati, is improving, physically and mentally. The physician is in hope that he will shortly be in a condition to give an intelligent account of his strange adventure.

THE Citizens' Coal Company has just received a fresh supply of coal. The following named gentlemen are the authorized agents of the company, and all orders left with them will receive prompt attention: James Redmond, Jr., West Second street; Hugh Shannon, corner Fourth and Plum; W. H. Wallingford, Fifth ward, opposite Hall's plow works, oddish.

LOVES OF THE DOGS generally and owners of fine hunting dogs particularly, will be glad to learn that County Clerks have received the register provided for by the last Legislature for the purpose of listing all dogs whose owners desire shall be classed as personal property. It has long been a source of annoyance to sportsmen that the law provided no punishment for the professional dog thief. This new law changes the aspect of affairs, and the knave who now walks off with another man's setter or pointer may be punished like any other person charged with larceny.—Lexington Transcript.

Complimentary.

Parties from Cincinnati were in our city yesterday, negotiating with O. R. Chamberlain, to secure the services of Mr. Knoll and the First Regiment Band, in a grand concert to be given at Cincinnati about December 1st. They know Professor Chamberlain's ability in the field, and so do we, and hence, we expect a rare treat on November 22. He will not disappoint the people of Mayville, as his past efforts have been eminently successful.

The Concert.

The concert at the opera house last night by Hauke's Reed and Brass Band was one of the most pleasant entertainments ever given in this city. The band was assisted by Her. Belstedt, the corner virtuoso of Cincinnati, and by Miss Lelia Wheeler, Dr. J. T. Strode, and Mr. G. S. Judd. The splendid audience in attendance expressed their appreciation of the music by repeated applause. Her. Belstedt received a perfect ovation at the close of his first piece, the cornet solo, "Old Folks' Polka," and was recalled several times. The house rang with applause and Mr. Belstedt was repeatedly encored. The vocal solos, "Adelaide" and "Marguerite," were among the most pleasant features of the programme, and their rendition by Miss Wheeler delighted the large audience. The applause with which her solos were received, as well as all the other selections rendered, was genuine. She was recalled several times, and responded in her usually charming voice and manner. At the close of the first piece by the band, Mr. J. C. A. King's little, five-year-old daughter was brought on the stage and to say that the audience were surprised at the wonderful musical talent she displayed is no more than telling the truth. She bids fair to become as famous as "Blind Tom."

Successful Meeting.

The Lexington Transcript says: "Elder Powell's meeting at the Broadway Christian Church, in this city, is still in progress, the interest growing stronger and the audience larger and larger. Elder Powell is conceded by all to be a very powerful speaker and the earnestness with which he delivers his sermons, so full of eloquence and pathos, captivate the closest attention of all, and wins their admiration. It is now the fourth week of his meeting, and about sixty auditors have been the result thus far. Three took membership by letter Tuesday night. Elder Powell's subject was taken from the text, 'Will ye Also Leave Me?' found in the 6th chapter of John. It was a very brilliant discourse. At the time of the immersion the gas-light in the church instantaneously went out, leaving the audience in total darkness. Two lamps were procured, and by their light the ordinance of baptism was administered to one young lady and three young men."

Anthrax Coal.

William Wornald has just received a superior quality of Chestnut Anthracite coal, suitable for base-burner stoves. Orders left at office, corner Wall and Third streets, will receive prompt attention.

THIS most difficult surgical operation that has ever been performed in this city was that upon Ralph Moore, little son of Captain Enos R. Moore, last week. The little boy was afflicted with a very severe case of croup, and his life was despaired of. Dr. E. S. Ricketts, assisted with Dr. Cotton Dr. Kline and Dr. McKerrillan as to the last resort, and the course to pursue to save the life of the child. It was decided to perform an operation upon the child, which was done. Tubes were run into the wind pipe, and although he was hanging on by a single spark of life, the operation proved to be successful and the child is slowly but surely convalescing.

This is a case of sickness in which death would have shortly resulted, had it not been for the skillful operation of the physicians.—Portsmouth Times.
